Get Prepared

The old adage, prior preparation prevents poor performance, make sure you start to come into the College thinking about the support you may need throughout your study journey with us. Use the Endeavour website (endeavour.edu.au) as a go to place, from here you will be able to link to the following two essential resources,

1. Learning Management System (LMS) –
   This is the learning and teaching platform that you will link to and use every day with either on Campus or on line subjects. Click though to the LMS login page (learn.endeavour.edu.au) and get started, this will have an orientation module that you are able to access and this will walk you through what you can expect and the “how to” videos across the 13 week student study period. Once you are in the LMS, this is where you are able to book extra support tutorials, contact your academics teams, download all your study materials, upload assignments, get regular updates and generally operate within the learning space of a LMS system.

2. The Student Portal –
   This is the administrative side of your study, this is where you are able to manage your study load with adding, dropping and swapping subjects, applying for your study assist loan agreement with FEE-HELP, exploring your timetable options per semester, finding forms based on your circumstances and general student notices and updates.

3. Remember you are now in a learning environment so take this opportunity to take your time to familiarise yourself with the associated study norms and expectations across the Higher Education (HE) system. There are many regulations and polices around this space ranging from expected academic standards that include plagiarism, protocols for written assignment extensions and requisite policies and procedures.

4. Student life at the Campus should be an active, harmonious, ethical and positive experience centred on Academic learning, research and professional and personal growth. We encourage you to remember that you are a student in a teaching and learning environment within a diverse range of disciplines at the College. The College expects all HE students to behave in a professional and courteous manner, in all interactions and conversations with all Endeavour staff and fellow students on Campus. As you progress through your studies the level of self-direction in studies and learning increases from years 1-2 to years 3-4 of the course. In years 1-2 students may have a choice in individual assignments and group projects and in years 3-4 assignment or projects may be based on case studies and personal clinical experiences. This is based on the adult learning principles of Andragogy, where adult learners and internally motivated, self-directed, goal orientated, relevancy orientated, practical and like to be self-respected in a teaching and learning space.

If you ever need a guiding hand and some extra support please be sure that you get in touch with one of your students services team and we will aim to assist you across the network.

Please contact the National team on Student.services@endeavour.edu.au or the 1300 462 887 number (option 2).
